Case No. 21-44385

ALICE JOHNSON,

Chapter 7

Debtor.

Judge Thomas J. Tucker

OPINION AND ORDER DENYING THE DEBTOR'S MOTION TO REOPEN BANKRUPTCY CASE

This case is before the Court on the Debtor's motion, filed September 8, 2022, entitled "Motion to Re-Open Chapter 7 Bankruptcy Case" (Docket # 22, the "Motion"). The Motion seeks to reopen this case to enable the Debtor to file a Financial Management Course Certificate, and then receive a discharge. The Motion was filed more than a year after this case was closed without a discharge on August 24, 2021. For the following reasons, the Court will deny the Motion.

A. Background

The Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under Chapter 7 on May 19, 2021, commencing this case. That same day, the Clerk issued a notice that the first meeting of creditors would be held on June 24, 2021 at 10:00 a.m. (Docket # 6, the "Notice"). The Notice was served on the Debtor's attorney by e-mail, by the Court's ECF system and also by the Bankruptcy Noticing Center, on May 19, 2021. (See Docket # 8). On May 21, 2021, the Notice was served by the Bankruptcy Noticing Center on the Debtor, by first class mail. (Id.).

Under Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1007(b)(7)(A),¹ 1007(c),² and 4004(c)(1)(H),³ and 11 U.S.C.

¹ Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1007(b)(7)(A) states the requirement for a debtor to file a Financial Management Course Certificate. It provides:

§ 727(a)(11),⁴ to obtain a discharge under 11 U.S.C. § 727, the Debtor was required to file a Financial Management Course Certificate “within 60 days after the first date set for the meeting

(7) Unless an approved provider of an instructional course concerning personal financial management has notified the court that a debtor has completed the course after filing the petition:

(A) An individual debtor in a chapter 7 . . . case shall file a statement of completion of the course, prepared as prescribed by the appropriate Official Form[.]

² Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1007(c) provides the time limit for filing the Financial Management Course Certificate. It states, in relevant part:

In a chapter 7 case, the debtor shall file the statement required by subdivision (b)(7) within 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341 of the Code[.]

³ Fed. R. Bankr. P. 4004(c)(1)(H) states:

(c) Grant of discharge

(1) In a chapter 7 case, on expiration of the times fixed for objecting to discharge and for filing a motion to dismiss the case under Rule 1017(e), the court shall forthwith grant the discharge, except that the court shall not grant the discharge if:

(H) the debtor has not filed with the court a statement of completion of a course concerning personal financial management if required by Rule 1007(b)(7)[.]

⁴ Under Section 727(a)(11), the court may not grant a discharge to a debtor who has not filed a Financial Management Course Certificate. It provides, in relevant part, that with exceptions not applicable here,:

(a) The court shall grant the debtor a discharge, unless—

(11) after filing the petition, the debtor failed to complete an instructional course concerning personal financial management described in section 111[.]

of creditors,” which meant that the deadline was August 23, 2021.

The Debtor failed to file the Financial Management Course Certificate by the August 23, 2021 deadline, or at any time thereafter while the case remained open. The Debtor also failed to file any motion to extend the deadline to file the Financial Management Course Certificate.

On August 24, 2021, after the case had been fully administered, the case was closed without a discharge, due to the Debtor’s failure to file the Financial Management Course Certificate. (Docket # 18.) The notice that the Debtor’s bankruptcy case had been closed without a discharge was served on the Debtor’s counsel by e-mail on August 24, 2021, through the Court’s ECF system. And such notice was served by the Bankruptcy Noticing Center by first class mail on August 26, 2021, on the Debtor and on the creditors that had not been served electronically. (Docket # 19). Such notice stated: “All creditors and parties in interest are notified that the above-captioned case has been closed without entry of discharge as Debtor(s) did not file Official Form 423, Certification About a Financial Management Course.” (Id.)

More than a year later, on September 8, 2022, the Debtor filed the Motion (Docket # 22). The Motion states, in its entirety:

1. Debtor, ALICE JOHNSON, commenced this case on May 19, 2021 by filing a voluntary petition for relief under Chapter 7 of Title 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code.
2. On or about August 24, 2021[, D]ebtor received a Notice of Chapter 7 Case Closed without Discharge for failure to file Official Form 423, Debtor’s Certification of Completion of Instructional Course Concerning Personal Financial Management.

WHEREFORE, Debtor prays that this Honorable Court enter an Order Re-Opening Case for the purpose of allowing the Debtor to file Form 423 and allowing the discharge to be entered.

(Docket # 22.)

B. Discussion

The Motion does not allege any excuse, let alone a valid excuse, for (1) the Debtor's failure to timely complete the financial management course and timely file the required Financial Management Course Certificate; and (2) the Debtor waiting more than a year after this case was closed before she moved to reopen it.

Section 350(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, Federal Bankruptcy Rule 5010,⁵ and Local Bankruptcy Rule 5010-1⁶ govern motions to reopen a case for the purpose of filing a Financial Management Course Certificate. Bankruptcy Code Section 350(b) states that "a case may be reopened in the court in which such case was closed to administer assets, to accord relief to the debtor, or for other cause." 11 U.S.C. § 350(b). Here, the Debtor seeks to reopen the case, in essence, to move for an order granting the Debtor a retroactive extension of time to file the Financial Management Course Certificate, so the Debtor can obtain a discharge.

"It is well settled that decisions as to whether to reopen bankruptcy cases . . . are committed to the sound discretion of the bankruptcy judge . . ." Rosinski v. Rosinski (In re Rosinski), 759 F.2d 539, 540-41 (6th Cir. 1985) (citations omitted). "To make the decision, courts may consider 'the equities of each case with an eye toward the principles which underlie the Bankruptcy Code.” In re Chrisman, No. 09-30662, 2016 WL 4447251, at *1 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio August 22, 2016) (citation omitted). The Debtor has the burden of establishing that “cause” exists to reopen this case. See id. (citing Rosinski, 759 F.2d 539 (6th Cir. 1985)).

⁵ Bankruptcy Rule 5010 states, in relevant part, that "[a] case may be reopened on motion of the debtor . . . pursuant to §350(b) of the Code." Fed. R. Bankr. P. 5010.

Bankruptcy Rule 9006(b)(3) states, in relevant part, that “the court may enlarge the time to file the statement required under Rule 1007(b)(7) [(the Financial Management Course Certificate)] . . . only to the extent and under the conditions stated in Rule 1007(c). Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9006(b)(3). Bankruptcy Rule 1007(c), in turn, permits a bankruptcy court “at any time and in its discretion, [to] enlarge the time to file the statement required by subdivision (b)(7) [of Bankruptcy Rule 1007(c) [(namely, a Financial Management Course Certificate)]].” Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1007(c). However, with an exception not applicable here, any such extension “may be granted only on motion for cause shown and on notice to the United States trustee, any committee elected under § 705 or appointed under § 1102 of the Code, trustee, examiner, or other party as the court may direct.” Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1007(c) (emphasis added).

Several reported bankruptcy cases, including cases decided by the undersigned judge, have considered whether “cause” exists to grant a debtor’s motion to reopen a case to file a Financial Management Course Certificate after the debtor’s case was closed without a discharge. Such cases apply a four-part test, and have denied the motion where the Debtor had not completed a post-petition financial management course, and filed the motion to reopen and a Financial Management Course Certificate, within a relatively short time after the case was closed. The four factors that these cases have considered are: “(1) whether there is a reasonable explanation for the failure to comply; (2) whether the request was timely; (3) whether fault lies with counsel; and (4) whether creditors are prejudiced.” See, e.g., In re Barrett, 569 B.R. 687, 690-92 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2017) (applying the 4-part test and denying a debtor's motion to reopen to file a Financial Management Course Certificate where the debtor had not completed the post-petition financial management course and did not file the motion to reopen and the Financial Management Course Certificate until more than 8 years after the case was closed); In re Chrisman, No. 09-30662, 2016 WL 4447251, at *2-3 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio Aug. 22, 2016) (denying a debtor's motion to reopen to file a Financial Management Course Certificate where the debtor had not completed the post-petition financial management course and did not file the motion to reopen and the Financial Management Course Certificate until more than 7 years after the case was closed); In re McGuiness, No. 08-10746, 2015 WL 6395655, at *2, 4 (Bankr. D.R.I. Oct. 22, 2015) (more than 7 year delay); In re Johnson, 500 B.R. 594, 597 (Bankr. D. Minn. 2013) (more than 4 year delay); cf. In re Heinbuch, No. 06-60670, 2016 WL 1417913, *3-4 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio April 7, 2016) (approximately 7 year delay).

This Court has denied motions to reopen in numerous cases, where the delay ranged from 10 months to more than 11 and a half years. See In re Flake, No. 16-56552, 2022 WL 3372783 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. Mich. 2017) (delay of almost 11 months).

The Court will apply this four-factor approach in this case. The Court finds that the Debtor has not shown either cause to reopen this case, or cause to grant the Debtor a retroactive extension of the deadline to file the Financial Management Course Certificate.

Factor 1: whether there is a reasonable explanation for the failure to comply

The Motion does not allege or demonstrate any reason, let alone a reasonable explanation or a valid excuse, (1) why the Debtor failed to timely complete the financial management course and file the required Financial Management Course Certificate, by the August 23, 2021 deadline; or (2) why the Debtor waited more than a year after this case was closed on August 24, 2021 before she moved to reopen the case. This factor, therefore, weighs against granting the Motion.

The Debtor received ample and advance notice of the requirement to file the Financial Management Course Certificate to obtain a discharge. Although not required to do so, the Clerk of this Court reminded the Debtor and her attorney of the requirement to file the Financial Management Course Certificate, and the deadline for doing so, in a notice filed on July 7, 2021. (Docket # 16). The notice was served on the Debtor's attorney by e-mail on July 7, 2021, through the Court's ECF system, and the Bankruptcy Noticing Center sent the notice to the Debtor by first class mail on July 9, 2021. (See Docket # 17). The notice stated:

NOTICE OF REQUIREMENT TO FILE A CERTIFICATION ABOUT A FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT COURSE

Notice is hereby given that, subject to limited exceptions, a debtor must complete an instructional course in personal financial management in order to receive a discharge. Pursuant to Rule 1007(b)(7) of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, the debtor(s) must complete and file a Certification About a Financial Management Course (Official Form 423) as described in 11 U.S.C. § 111.

Debtor(s) and/or debtor(s)' attorney is/are hereby notified that Official Form 423 must be filed before a discharge can be entered. Debtor(s) and/or debtor(s)' attorney is/are hereby notified that in a chapter 7 case the debtor(s) must file Official Form 423 within 60 days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors under § 341 of the Code.

Failure to file the certification will result in the case being closed without an entry of discharge. If the debtor(s) subsequently file(s) a Motion to Reopen the Case to allow for the filing of the Official Form 423, the debtor(s) must pay the full reopening fee due for filing the motion.

(Docket # 17) (footnote omitted) (bold in original).

Even assuming that the Debtor did not know, or that she forgot that she had to file the Financial Management Course Certificate to obtain a discharge, she cannot reasonably and credibly allege that she did not know that his case was closed without a discharge. The Debtor and her attorney both received the Notice of the Final Decree in August 2021, which clearly stated that his case had “been closed without entry of discharge” because the Debtor “did not file Official Form 423, Certification About a Financial Management Course.”⁷

The Motion also does not explain why the Debtor waited more than a year after the case was closed to move to reopen the case. As already stated, the Debtor was informed, by the notice described above, which was mailed to her on August 26, 2021, that this case had been closed without a discharge, and why it had been so closed.⁸ Yet the Debtor did nothing to try to rectify this for more than a year afterwards. The Motion alleges no reason whatsoever, let alone a valid excuse, for such a long delay by the Debtor in moving to reopen this case.

Factor 2: whether the request was timely

The delay of more than a year in the Debtor’s moving to reopen this case, is far too long. Such a long delay frustrates the goals of the legislation which added the financial management course requirement as a condition for obtaining a Chapter 7 discharge. In Chrisman, the court

⁷ The Debtor admits that she received this notice. (See Mot. at ¶ 2.)

explained:

Congress added participation in a post-petition financial management instructional course as a condition to obtaining a Chapter 7 discharge to the Bankruptcy Code in the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005. 11 U.S.C. § 727(a)(11). One of the goals of the legislation and this requirement was to restore individual financial responsibility to the bankruptcy system.

“The main purpose of a bankruptcy filing is to obtain a discharge, and any action that delays that benefit is mystifying and therefore requires additional justification. Justification supports the goals of not only the bankruptcy system, but also the purpose of the financial management course. Allowing a debtor to take the financial management course years after its target completion provides no educational benefit to the debtor for the intervening years and denigrates its purpose. Moreover, it maligns the integrity of the system and its fairness to all parties....It is unfair to creditors to allow a debtor to avoid the responsibilities established by the bankruptcy code and rules, only to later want to fulfill those requirements when faced with a resulting unpleasantness.”

Chrisman, 2016 WL 4447251, at *1, *2 (quoting Heinbuch, 2016 WL 1417913, at *2). In Chrisman, “neither the instructional component nor the paperwork component were timely accomplished,” and the court found that “[t]he Congressional purposes in adding the post-petition financial management instructional requirement to the Bankruptcy Code as a condition of discharge [had] been completely stymied.” Id. at *3.

Here, as in Chrisman, the Debtor did not timely complete either the instructional component nor the paperwork component of the financial management instructional requirement. To date, the Debtor still has not filed the Financial Management Course Certificate, and the Motion does not allege that she has completed the financial management instructional requirement. The Court finds that the Congressional purposes in adding the post-petition financial management instructional requirement has been completely stymied in this case. The magnitude of the Debtor's delay in completing the financial management course and moving to reopen this case is significant, and this factor strongly weighs against granting the Motion.

Factor 3: whether fault lies with counsel

The Debtor has been represented by counsel in this case at all times, but the Debtor did not allege in the Motion that his failure to timely complete the Financial Management Course and to file a Financial Management Course Certificate was the fault of his counsel. And the Motion does not allege that the delay of more than a year to move to reopen this case was the fault of the Debtor's attorney. This factor weighs against granting the Motion.

Factor 4: whether creditors are prejudiced

In Chrisman, the court reasoned, with regard to the prejudice factor, that “[t]o spring a discharge on creditors more than seven years later that many of them will now not even receive, at peril of violating the unknown discharge, is simply unfair.” Id. at *3. The delay in this case is shorter than the delay in Chrisman, but it is still very long. Generally speaking, the longer the delay, the greater the prejudice. Here, there was a long delay. This factor, therefore, also weighs against granting the Motion.

In summary, all of the relevant factors weigh against a finding of cause to reopen this case. The Debtor has failed to demonstrate cause to reopen this case. Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED that:

1. The Motion (Docket # 22) is denied.
2. The Debtor is not prohibited from filing a new bankruptcy case.
